VILLAGE OF CUBA, NEW MEXICO

Security, Safety & Violence Assessment

Research period: 2023–2026 | Prepared November 9, 2026

Purpose. Organize the uploaded municipal ordinance into practical safety categories, identify what public incident information is available, and show where village-specific data is still needed.

Critical limitation. The uploaded ordinance describes prohibited conduct; it is not a crime log. The only multi-year numerical crime series located in this research is explicitly for unincorporated Sandoval County, not the incorporated Village of Cuba. Those county figures are presented only as regional context and must not be represented as Cuba village statistics.

1. Executive summary

The uploaded document is titled Criminal Code Ordinance on General Offenses, Ordinance No. 1980-0-1, adopted January 9, 1980. Its chapter structure includes public order and safety, property, public morals, minors, nuisances, and animal control. Chapter Two is the most direct foundation for a security and violence framework; Chapter Three adds property protection. The ordinance is old, and this assessment does not establish whether every provision remains current, has been amended, or is enforceable today.

The strongest defensible conclusion from available public data is not that Cuba has a particular crime rate. Rather, public information reviewed here does not provide a complete, verified Village of Cuba incident series for 2023–2026. Sandoval County's 2025 Sheriff's Office annual report gives unincorporated-county statistics for 2023–2025 and mentions one 2023 robbery as having occurred in Cuba, NM. Because the report's table is headed as unincorporated-county crime and does not clarify the jurisdictional boundary for that robbery, that single mention should be treated as a location note—not a village crime total.

Priority next step: request incident-level or category-level annual totals from the Cuba Police Department and Sandoval County Regional Emergency Communications Center, with geography separated into incorporated Village limits, unincorporated areas, and mutual-aid responses.

2. Ordinance foundation: what it covers

The uploaded ordinance organizes local general offenses into seven chapters. The following matrix is a practical reading of the ordinance's chapter headings and visible provisions, not a determination of current law.

Ordinance chapter	Topics visible in the uploaded ordinance	Assessment use
Chapter 1 — Authority & penalties	Title, definitions, amendments, general penalties, severability, repealer	Document scope and legal-status verification
Chapter 2 — Public order & safety	Assault, battery, trespass, prowling, disturbing peace, unreasonable noise, disorderly conduct, intoxication, unlawful assembly, obstructio	Violence, personal safety, public order, weapons, emergency re
Chapter 3 — Property	Property damage/tampering, library property, litter, advertising matter, theft, fraud, receiving stolen property, shoplifting, worthless checks, re	Property protection and neighborhood conditions
Chapter 4 — Public morals	Lewd/immoral/obscene acts, window peeping, gambling, aiding illegal activity, marijuana possession (as written in the ordinance)	Review only after checking current state law and amendments
Chapter 5 — Minors	Chapter heading and section range are listed in the ordinance contents	Youth safety and prevention; retrieve and review full text before
Chapter 6 — Nuisances	Chapter heading and section range are listed in the ordinance contents	Environmental and neighborhood quality-of-life concerns
Chapter 7 — Animal control	Chapter heading and section range are listed in the ordinance contents	Animal-related public safety and nuisance tracking

Chapter Two provisions especially relevant to violence and safety: assault and battery; disorderly conduct includes fighting and threatening or violent behavior; public intoxication; unlawful assembly; obstruction of movement; deadly weapons; propelling missiles; fireworks; false alarms and false reports; and interference with officers and emergency personnel. The ordinance text also addresses trespass and prowling.

3. What public statistics say—and do not say

Sandoval County Sheriff's Office, 2025 Annual Report: the report identifies Cuba as an incorporated municipality within Sandoval County, but the crime-statistics-at-a-glance table is specifically labeled “Crime in Unincorporated Sandoval County.” The table reports the following figures for 2023–2025. These are contextual county figures only, not village totals.

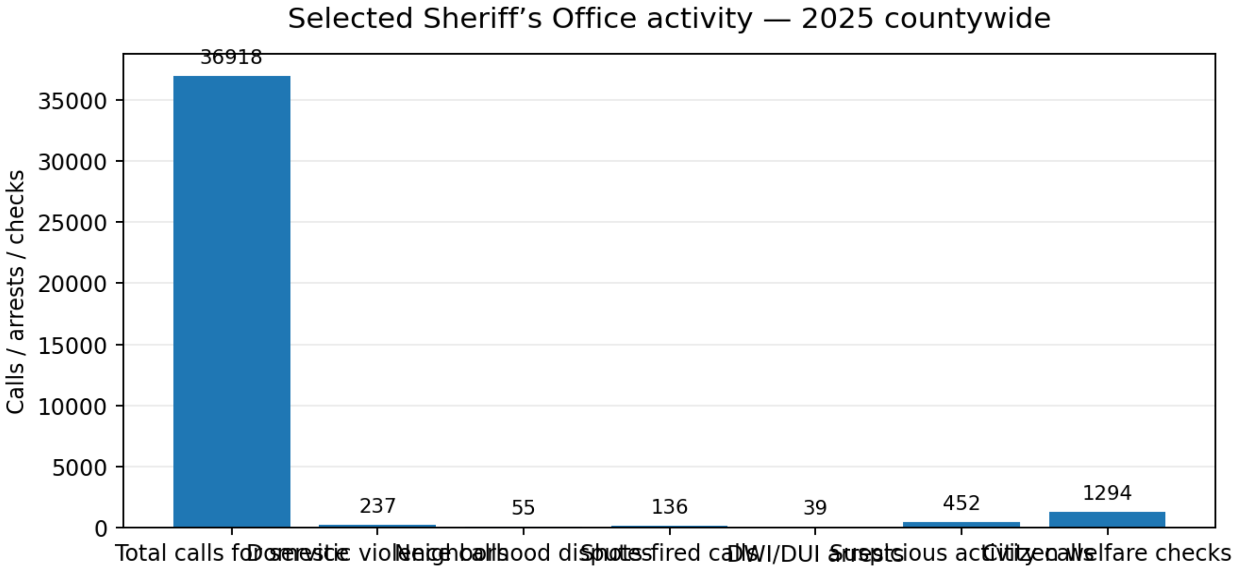
The county report also lists selected 2025 Sheriff’s Office workload measures: 36,918 calls for service; 237 domestic-violence calls; 55 neighborhood disputes; 136 shots-fired calls (described as typically in unincorporated Mesa areas); 39 DWI/DUI arrests; 452 suspicious-activity calls; and 1,294 welfare checks. These figures cover the Sheriff’s Office service area and are not Cuba-specific. They should not be used to infer incident levels inside the Village.



Countywide Sheriff’s Office activity; not Cuba-specific. Different categories may overlap and should not be summed as unique crimes.

4. Cuba-specific evidence available in this review

Year	Finding	How to interpret it
2023	Robbery	Sandoval County Sheriff's Office report says one robbery was reported and notes it occurred in Cuba, NM; the sa
2024	Village-level total crime counts	No verified Village of Cuba Police Department annual crime report found in this research.
2025	Village-level total crime counts	No verified Village of Cuba Police Department annual crime report found in this research.
2026 YTD	Village-level total crime counts	No verified 2026 year-to-date village incident data located; year is incomplete as of Nov. 9, 2026.

2023 robbery note: The county report records one robbery in its unincorporated-county table and annotates that it “Occurred in Cuba NM.” This is a reportable location reference, but the report does not state whether the incident was inside the incorporated Village boundary or whether the table’s geography includes a cross-jurisdiction event. Do not use this as proof of a complete Village count.

2024–2026: No verified Village of Cuba Police Department annual statistics for these years were located in this research. No village-level 2026 year-to-date total is available here. Missing data is not zero crime.

5. Suggested chart framework for a true village assessment

Chart	Measures to request	Recommended display
Violence / personal safety	Assault, battery, aggravated assault, robbery, homicide, sexual offenses, domestic violence; distinguish calls, reports, arrests, charges	Annual grouped bars + monthly trend
Public order / disorder	Disorderly conduct, fights, threats, noise complaints, intoxication, unlawful assembly	Stacked bars by category and month
Weapons / immediate hazards	Weapons calls, shots fired, weapon offenses, fireworks, missile/projectile incidents	Monthly counts; map only with geocoded and privacy-safe da
Property / neighborhood security	Burglary, vehicle burglary, theft, vandalism, trespass, prowling, shoplifting	Annual trend + location heat map
Youth safety	Juvenile-involved incidents, school-related calls, child welfare referrals; protect identities	Annual totals, age bands only if privacy-safe
Emergency response / service demand	Calls for service, response time, priority level, repeat locations, mutual aid	Monthly trend and response-time distribution

6. Data request checklist

Request annual totals for calendar years 2023, 2024, 2025 and 2026 year-to-date (through the latest available date). Ask the agency to identify whether each record is a call for service, incident/report, arrest, citation, or case; these are not interchangeable.

- Geographic boundary: inside incorporated Village of Cuba; unincorporated areas nearby; mutual-aid responses.
- Offense category and incident date; monthly totals and annual totals.
- Calls for service by call type, with duplicate/administrative calls separated where possible.
- Violent offenses: assault/battery, aggravated assault, robbery, homicide, sexual offenses, domestic violence.
- Property offenses: burglary, vehicle burglary, theft, shoplifting, vandalism, criminal damage, trespass.
- Public-order/safety calls: disorderly conduct, fights, threats, intoxication, weapons, shots fired, fireworks, false alarms.
- Youth-related records aggregated to protect minors' identities.
- Traffic and emergency safety: injury crashes, DWI arrests, response time, road hazards.
- Data dictionary, reporting-system changes, missing months, and whether statistics were submitted to NIBRS/UCR.

Suggested agencies and sources

- Village of Cuba Police Department / Village Clerk: request municipal police incident and calls-for-service totals by incorporated jurisdiction.
- Sandoval County Sheriff's Office: request calls and cases inside Village limits, plus mutual-aid responses; the 2025 annual report states deputies have authority within the Village of Cuba.
- Sandoval County Regional Emergency Communications Center: request dispatch/call type and response-time data with geography separated.
- New Mexico Department of Public Safety Law Enforcement Records Bureau and FBI Crime Data Explorer: request or verify agency-level UCR/NIBRS participation and offense submissions.

7. Methodology, cautions and conclusion

This assessment separates (A) ordinance provisions, which describe conduct the local ordinance addresses, from (B) reported incident counts, which require police or dispatch records. County context charts are not relabeled as village data. The county report itself states that its crime-statistics table covers unincorporated Sandoval County; it also separately identifies Cuba as an incorporated municipality. The 2023 robbery note is retained with a jurisdiction caveat.

Do not calculate a Cuba crime rate from county totals or compare county totals directly with village population. Do not interpret arrests as offenses, calls as verified crimes, or an absence of published data as zero incidents. Before using the ordinance as a current enforcement baseline, ask the Village Clerk or municipal attorney for the current codified ordinance and amendment history, particularly where state law has changed.

Bottom line: The ordinance supplies a useful local framework for tracking violence, public order, weapons, property, minors, nuisances and animal-related safety. The current public evidence reviewed is insufficient to quantify a 2023–2026 crime trend inside the Village of Cuba. The next defensible step is a jurisdiction-specific records request.
